Debate

Westside Family Healthcare applauds the support of United States Senator Tom Carper in voting in support of critical amendments to the America's Healthy Future Act of 2009, the main piece of health reform legislation that went for debate in the Senate Finance Committee during the months of September and October. Senator Carper supported amendments that would positively affect community health centers and emphasize the importance of their critical role in national health reform. On behalf of the patients and communities we serve, we would like to sincerely thank Senator Carper, he is an ardent advocate for Westside and community health centers across the country.

As the health reform debate continues on, Westside and its partner organization, the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC), are monitoring this debate and the proposed policy implications very closely. If you would like to stay informed and be involved in advocating for Westside and the other community health centers across the nation, you can sign up to become a health center advocate here . By becoming an advocate you will receive periodic updates on important legislation effecting health centers and the action that you can take to help the cause. There hasn't been a more exciting time then the present and by staying informed and involved, you can have your voice heard!
