June 17, 2011 | By SHAWN R. BEALS, sbearl@courant.com, The Hartford Courant

Two top directors of the Community Health Center will host a new WNPR radio show focusing on health care issues, starting Sunday.

The weekly show, called "Conversations on Health Care," was recently added to the WNPR lineup. It had run on local stations since 2009.

It will feature Mark Masselli, the CEO of Community Health Center, and Margaret Flinter, the center's senior vice president and clinical director. The NPR show will be broadcast at 4 p.m. on Sundays.

"The show is about opportunities for reform and innovation in the health care system," Masselli said. "It's not about health, it's about the health care system. There's so much going on."

He said the show covers topics such as technology, innovation and economics and how they affect health care.

The half-hour show is one of an increasing lineup of health care-related shows on WNPR. It can be heard on stations 90.5 FM Hartford/New Haven, 89.1 FM Norwich/New London, 88.5 FM Stamford/Greenwich, 91.3 FM Southampton, New York, and 99.5 FM Storrs/Mansfield.

Masselli founded the health center in 1972 in Middletown, and it now provides primary, dental and psychiatric care at 173 locations in Connecticut to more than 130,000 uninsured or underinsured people.
