MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of Greene County Health Care, Inc. is to provide health care to residents of Greene, Pitt, and Pamlico Counties and the surrounding area with an emphasis on providing quality services to the underserved.

VALUES

We believe:

- The patient has the right to medical treatment at Greene County Health Care regardless of race, religion, gender, national origin, marital status, age, disabilities, or ability to pay.
- The patient has the right to be treated with dignity and respect. The staff respects the patient's mental, social, spiritual, and cultural values about health, illness and injury.
- The patient has the right to know what his or her illness is; to know treatment options and the advantages and disadvantages of each; to help make decisions about the treatment that he or she may receive; and to know what complications the treatment is likely to cause in a language that is easily understood by the patient.
- The patient has the right to receive from his provider information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure and/or treatment. Patients who are unable to fully participate in treatment decisions have the right to be represented by parents, guardians, family members, or other conservators.
- The patient has the right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by the law and to be informed of the medical consequences of his actions.

A Letter to Our Community

Dear Friends and Supporters,

As we reflect on the last four decades of care provided by Greene County Health Care, Inc. (GCHC), we are both humbled and emboldened by the challenges we've faced and the success we've had in collaborating and innovating for the future of health care in our region. There is no other health care provider doing as much as we are to improve the lives of those we serve. We have taken a leadership role to address access to care and held ourselves to the highest standards of quality, not just because it's the right thing to do, but because we want to be the provider of choice for our patients.

We engage with people who are chronically ill and very sick, but we also want to be the first place people turn to when they want to proactively take charge of their health. We provide it all – from medical and dental care to family therapy services – with a model for integrated care, cutting edge technology and data systems, innovative partnerships and collaborations, and above all caring staff that work tirelessly to deliver the necessary care for each individual. In meeting our neighbors where they live, we've expanded to eight facilities in our three county service area and have more than tripled our reach in the last decade.

Our emphasis on quality is uncompromising. GCHC is nationally recognized as a patient-centered medical home by the National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA). On a daily basis, we strive to improve our health care services by using proven, quality, patient-centered care through a patient-clinician relationship that extends beyond the walls of our exam rooms. Our experienced staff, volunteers and board are made up of many talented individuals who are dedicated to our mission and to helping our community become healthier. It is our passion. It's not just what we do; it's who we are at our core.

While our effort to be accessible is as strong as ever, we know we must continue to transform our practices to care for more in need in the ways that will create better health outcomes. Make no mistake, we are providing more than a medical home. We are providing a lifeline for people to feel better, to work, to play, and to be present for their families. The consequences of not feeling well and the price tag associated with it are too great. That's our mission in action – when our patients, who are our friends and neighbors, are leading healthy, productive lives with the freedom to do what matters most to them.

The challenges ahead are unprecedented. Many of you have been with us as we've risen to meet these challenges time and time again, and we find ourselves at a critical crossroad. With great clarity we see that our work is not done. Greene County Health Care is poised to rise to the occasion yet again and you can count on us to be out in front, leading the way with every step for better health. We will work together, hand-in-hand, side-by-side, as we've done since our doors first opened in Walstonburg in 1972, to ensure that our vision of high quality health care for all is a reality.

We hope you'll continue to support us as we embark on this journey together.

Leading

Through Service and Quality

Service

GCHC was incorporated as a small rural health clinic in 1972 and has evolved into a community-based comprehensive primary care provider for over 33,000 residents in a ten county service area. GCHC was designated as a Federally Qualified Health Center in 1973 and has retained full status ever since. We have provided uninterrupted primary care services to our community for 42 years and to the Migrant and Seasonal Farmworker population for over 17 years. The vast majority of our patients (99%) have annual incomes below 100% federal poverty level (FPL). Fifty percent of our patients speak Spanish as their primary language and 85% are uninsured.

Unique characteristics of GCHC that make us the best entity for delivering care to the target population in this area include the fact that we are the only organization that combines medical, dental and behavioral health care in a seamless continuum for all our patients. Our significant accomplishments since 2000 include expanding from an organization with one school-based site and one health center site to the current five sites now delivering integrated primary care. We are proud of our results in addressing the identified health care needs of the target population through participation in state and national collaborations.

GCHC is finishing the last year of a ten year formal strategic plan which was created with extensive participation by the staff, board, patients and interested community members. The major objectives of this plan were to meet more of the community's health care needs by expanding the capacity of GCHC to serve more patients from a larger area with a wider variety of services while maintaining high quality of care. On an annual basis, the management and board compares GCHC's patient outcomes and demographics with county and regional figures to ensure we are targeting our services appropriately. Farmworker focus groups are conducted annually by outreach staff to solicit feedback on current services, and ideas for future services. The future plans for GCHC will continually evolve as demands and needs shift. What remains constant is our commitment to the community and our need for the community to give back through donations and volunteers.

GCHC's growth is evidence of our commitment to eastern North Carolina residents. The fruits of our labor can be seen on the faces of those we help, whether it's a sigh of relief or a smile at the prospect of feeling better. We are a trusted and reassuring presence in our region. GCHC is a pillar of the community and is going above and beyond to meet the ever changing needs of those we serve.

Quality Recognitions

The following Greene County Health Care, Inc. sites have earned Level 3 recognition from the National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA) as Patient Centered Medical Homes:

- Kate B. Reynolds Medical Center, 205 Martin Luther King Jr. Parkway, Snow Hill
- James D. Bernstein Medical Center, 261 Belvoir Rd., Greenville
- Walstonburg Community Health Center, 204 S. Main St., Walstonburg
- Snow Hill Medical Center, 302 N. Greene Street, Snow Hill

In addition, GCHC's newest clinic, Pamlico Community Health Center, has earned NCQA Level 2 recognition.

Locations to Access Services

Greene County Health Care serves patients from the Wilson area to north of Greenville, then down into southern Washington County and on into Pamlico County, and then back up to Greene County. Patients also come from Craven, Jones, Lenoir and Wayne Counties for their health care.

Leading with Compassion

Getting great care often involves more than receiving a medical procedure. One Snow Hill family saw first-hand how GCHC intervenes to improve care by improving a young girl's living environment.

The situation for a Snow Hill family was dire enough a few years ago: Their 14-year-old girl, Jessica, was hospitalized at Vidant Medical Center in Greenville with a tumor. As the child was recovering from a procedure to remove the tumor, a hospital social worker discovered the family's challenges were just beginning.

The family had recently moved into an old farmhouse that needed repairs. Fearing that the housing situation could jeopardize the child's recovery, the social worker called Steve Davis, Greene County Health Care's outreach director, to see what help the organization could provide.

Davis quickly mobilized a team to investigate making the repairs. In the course of tearing out a wall and ceiling, volunteers discovered how bad it really was.

"Almost everything was infested with mold," Davis recalls.

Davis and his volunteer crew went to work, removing the mold, replacing all walls and ceilings, putting on a new roof and installing a donated central air and heating system. Other organizations – including Telamon Corporation and the Southern Men's Baptist Association – contributed volunteer time and supplies. A relief fund effort raised more than $3,000. GCHC staff worked as late as 3 a.m. to get the house ready for the child to return home.

Davis said, "I will never forget Jessica's face when she arrived home. After being in the hospital for over 2 months, she was finally able to come home and have her own room. Not only was it mold-free, but it was also freshly painted and decorated the way she had always wanted it to be. Unfortunately, a few short weeks after Jessica was released from the hospital, she lost her fight with cancer. Our hearts were broken, but we knew she had gone to a better place where pain and suffering would no longer be an issue. Even though our hearts were heavy, we still realized that we had made a little girl's life just a little bit happier and a little more comfortable, even if it was only for a short time. I was so impressed by the volunteers and other agencies that jumped in to help a little girl that many had never met and would never get to know. I am thankful that I work at a company that understands that there are many ways that we can practice 'good medicine'. To this day, we still continue to provide services to Jessica's parents and siblings and they consider us not just to be employees at Greene County Health Care, but also part of their family."

The Fight for Access

Walstonburg Medical Center

In 1972, citizens of Greene County had become concerned about the lack of access to health care in their community. Together with the assistance of Jim Bernstein, the Director of the NC Office of Rural Health, they applied for funding to establish a community health center in Greene County. Mr. Bernstein secured state dollars to build the Walstonburg Medical Center and wrote the first federal grant application for Greene County Health Care (GCHC). This center was the first solo nurse practitioner medical center in North Carolina, and continues to be led by a certified family nurse practitioner today. Walstonburg Medical Center provides preventive and family medical care.

Elvira Cruz, medical assistant; Elizabeth Lum Huston, FNP-C; Norma McKinley, medical assistant; and Dora Gray, medical office receptionist.

When asked why she enjoys working with GCHC, Elvira states, "I just love helping people. When I go home, if I can say I've helped someone that day, I know I've done good work. GCHC and the clinic staff really care about the patients."

The Fight for Access

Snow Hill Medical Center

By 1978, GCHC purchased and renovated an old furniture store in downtown Snow Hill which became Snow Hill Medical Center. GCHC also established the first school-based health center in NC the same year. By 1996, Snow Hill Medical Center had outgrown its facility, so GCHC purchased the building next door and renovated the medical center which doubled the number of exam rooms. SHMC is a leader in providing adult and geriatric medical care in the community.

GCHC's medical director, Dr. Elie Osta, with Mrs. Pearlie Wade. The sassy 92-year old states, "I love Dr. Osta. He's been my doctor for about 17 years. I'll be 93 in November, and I hope he's still taking care of me in another 17 years."

Kristi Walsh, CMA with patient Ruby Vines. Ms. Vines states, "The staff at Snow Hill Medical are wonderful people. They treat me like family, and I don't know what I'd do without them. They're very special!"

Kate B. Reynolds Medical Center

Snow Hill Medical Center filled up quickly, so GCHC decided to build a new family medical center. Kate B. Reynolds Medical Center opened in 2001 with 12 exam rooms and was connected to Snow Hill Medical Center using an integrated electronic medical record system. This center provides primary health care services including family medicine, pediatric, prenatal/postnatal, laboratory, x-ray, contracted pharmacy, and mental health counseling services.

Dr. Carmen Lucia Moreno (above) states, "I am happy to work at GCHC because I'm able to help children, which is very rewarding. Children are spontaneous, talented, fun, and extra-special. Since I'm Hispanic, I can relate to the Hispanic population here. KBR has a great team, and GCHC allows me to grow as a professional."

Greene Dental Services

In 2001, GCHC wrote grants and received funding to construct and operate Greene Dental Services. In 2009, Greene Dental Services increased their ability to provide care to even more dental patients by adding four more dental operatories. GDS provides comprehensive family dentistry services.

Migrant and Seasonal Farmworker Outreach Services

Our 20-person bilingual and bicultural outreach team provides medical, education, and enabling services at 1,500 farmworker camps or residences in the region, serving over 20,000 farmworkers annually. The outreach team serving this large farmworker population has received numerous awards, including being a three-time recipient of the Sister Cecilia B. Abhold Award for “Best Farmworker Outreach Program on the East Coast” from Health Outreach Partners. A few examples of services the program provides are:

- Medical providers skilled at recognizing and treating farmworker occupational illnesses such as exposures to pesticides, nicotine poisoning from green tobacco, contact dermatitis, musculoskeletal injuries, and heat-related illnesses.
- Providers and staff who are culturally aware of the health beliefs of rural Mexicans, which enhances their ability to diagnose and treat effectively.
- Two promotoras who have received extensive training on diabetes, sexually transmitted diseases, and heat stress illness. The promotoras provide health information about these topics and act as a resource for the farmworkers in their community.
- Educational presentations on health concerns at the migrant camps. Topics include: pesticide safety, green tobacco sickness, sun and heat stress, diabetes, hypertension, personal hygiene, food safety, and car safety.

The Fight for Access

James D. Bernstein Community Health Center

In 2006, Access East built the James D. Bernstein Community Health Center in Pitt County, to be leased to Greene County Health Care to provide adult and pediatric medical, dental, and mental health services. In addition, the clinic also provides specialized diabetes care for complex diabetic patients. GCHC received funding to operate the center from Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA). Bernstein Community Health Center was expanded by Access East in 2013 and now has 22 exam rooms.

GCHC Administrative Office

In 2006, GCHC received funding and built an administrative office. Due to the continued growth of GCHC the building was quickly outgrown, so funding was received in 2009 to expand it. Human Resources, Finance, Billing, Migrant and Farmworker Out-Reach services, IT, Quality Improvement, and other support services are housed in this building.

Medical Family Therapy Services

Leading the way in continuity of care, GCHC added medical family therapists (MFT) to the health care team in 2008, and was recognized by East Carolina University's Marriage and Family Therapy Program for participation in the integrative care model. The medical family therapy program, led by Dr. Angela Lamson and Dr. Jennifer Hodgson, integrates behavioral healthcare with traditional family medicine services to help patients and their families achieve healthcare goals and improve their quality of life. This integrative model is the most effective approach to caring for people with multiple healthcare needs.

Community Partners HealthNet

In 1999, GCHC decided to implement an electronic medical records system throughout its medical/dental clinics, and was the lead agency in creating Community Partners HealthNet (CPH). CPH is an information technology (IT) center which provides and supports electronic health records, practice management software, and billing software for 12 member community and rural health centers.

In addition to electronic health records, CPH also manages a data warehouse, tracks clinical outcomes for its member clinics, and provides disaster recovery capabilities.

Enrollment Specialists

In 2013, GCHC received funds to hire staff to enroll patients in the new health benefit exchanges. GCHC and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill have been designated as the two enrollment champions in NC. These 6 enrollment specialists are helping consumers throughout eastern North Carolina sign up for affordable health care through the new Health Insurance Marketplace.

Pamlico Community Health Center

In 2012, Pamlico Community Health Center was opened by GCHC after purchasing a private pediatric practice in Pamlico County. With the goal of expanding health care services for the area, construction on a beautiful new medical clinic in Bayboro was completed in August of 2014. Pamlico Community Health Center now provides comprehensive medical care to adults and children.

The Long Haul

Care delivered by the GCHC team isn't a one-time event. The impact can last a lifetime.

The GCHC team sometimes doesn't know where their efforts will lead. Take the case of Eudalia, a mother of five who was also raising a niece.

GCHC first encountered Eudalia in 2007 while conducting regular outreach to farmworkers in the region. She was in obvious distress, so the outreach team took her to the Snow Hill Medical Center. There she was diagnosed with diabetes and thyroid disease, setting in motion a course of treatment and diabetes education.

At the same time, Eudalia's niece was seven months pregnant. At the center, the GCHC staff referred her to an OB/GYN who diagnosed a high-risk pregnancy. The physician made arrangements for her to come in three times a week for ultrasounds and started her on prenatal vitamins. Without the intervention, the doctor believes the baby might not have survived.

The end result, six years later, Eudalia has faithfully visited the endocrinologist and returned to Snow Hill regularly for monitoring her diabetes. She's doing well. And, her niece's baby is now a healthy 6-year-old.

It's one of hundreds of examples of how GCHC sees patients through the long haul.

Steve Davis said, "I just saw Miss Eudalia this past weekend and remembered back to when I first met her over six years ago. I remember her having a great big goiter on her neck and only weighing around 95 pounds. I also remember the doctor telling her if she did not get her diabetes under control she would not be around much longer to see her children grow up. Now 6 years later, she weighs 120 pounds, the goiter on her neck is hardly visible, and she makes a conscious effort to follow a strict diet and take her medications as prescribed by her doctor. I really believe that since we were and are able to provide case management for her and make home visits on a regular basis that has helped give her more motivation and guidance in making healthier lifestyle choices."

Leading Through Excellence

Time and again GCHC has been recognized for its outstanding service to the citizens of North Carolina as well as its visionary leadership which has enhanced the primary health care delivery system. CEO Doug Smith has been the recipient of numerous awards at the local, state and national levels including being named a “Community Catalyst” by the East Coast Migrant Stream Forum, two-time award winner for outstanding service, and a recipient of the Robert J. Greczyn Leadership Award from the North Carolina Community Health Center Association. Dental Director Rob Doherty has been awarded the Unsung Hero Award – both figuratively by his patients and literally by the Migrant Clinicians Network. The following are just a few examples of the recognition that GCHC leadership and staff have received for the highest standards of excellence and the effective use of health information technology.

Highlights include:

- 1999: Barbara Garrison Award from the NC Farmworker Health Alliance to Doug Smith, CEO

With Community Partners

Community Partners

GCHC routinely collaborates and partners with other healthcare providers to ensure that GCHC patients receive a seamless continuum of care and access to needed specialty care. Examples of some current partnerships:

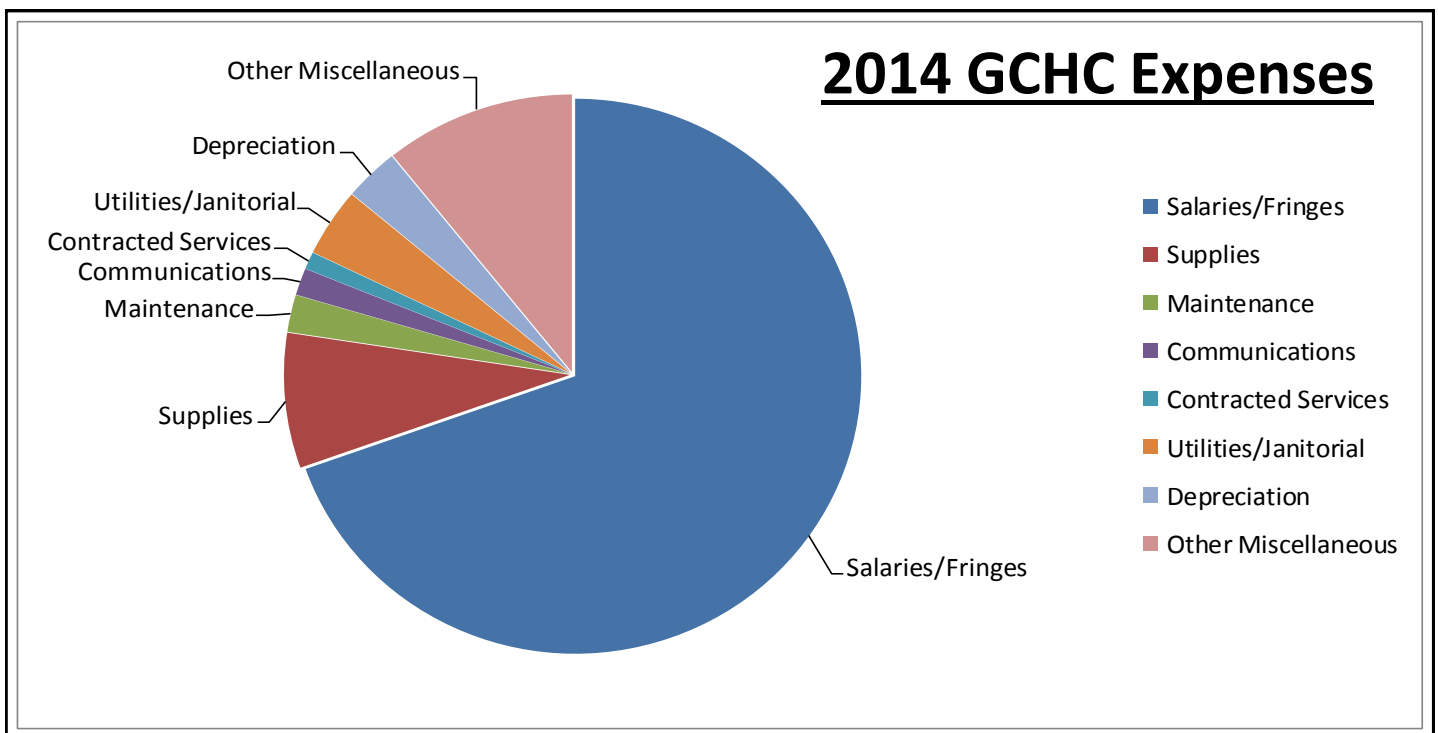

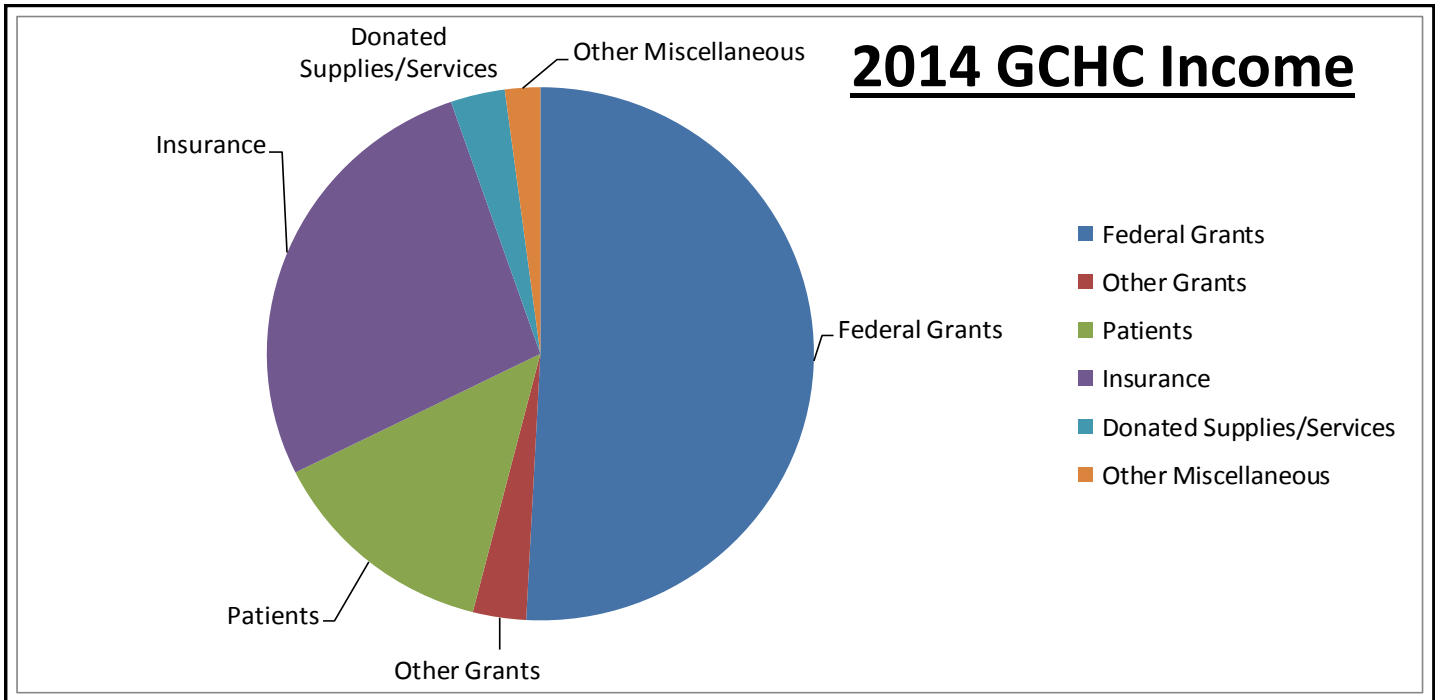

- East Carolina HIV/AIDS Partnership to assist patients with emergency costs
 - Vidant Medical Center: Inpatient care and discharge planning
 - ECU Department of Child Development and Family Therapy for mental health services, referrals to substance abuse services, and training in substance abuse screening
 - Brody School of Medicine for inpatient labor and delivery services
 - Brody School of Medicine for other specialty care needs
 - Community Care Plan of Eastern NC for Medicaid patients who have chronic conditions requiring a higher level of case management
 - Health Assist for diagnostic tests, medication assistance, and transportation not provided within GCHC system
 - UNC School of Dentistry for training and consultation
 - Greene County Health Department for mammography
 - Realo Pharmacy, Walgreens Pharmacy, Bayboro Pharmacy, and Pamlico Pharmacy for low-cost 340B prescriptions
